TABLE DELICACIES

RECIPES FOR DISHES OF ALL DE-SCRIPTIONS.

Lobster Fact Will Be Appreciate on the Luncheon Menu — Delicious Deviled Kidneys Best Method of Preparing Soup From Onions.

Lobeter Faci.-This is delicious to serve at card parties or luncheons. Remove the meat from a large boiled lobster; then pick into flakes. Place one pint atrained tomato pulp in stew-ing pan and when hot add one tablein of corn-starch, wet with a little spoon of corn-states, we cold water; two tablespoons of butter, one level teaspoon wet mustard, one teaspoon of scraped onion and the lob-Simmer until creamy, then fill paper cases. Strew with brown bread crumbs. Serve hot. Canned lobster

Frozen Beets -- If you want a res delicacy try this: Boil the amount of augar beets required. When boiled peel, alice and cover with vinegar. Allow them to freeze over night. Serve with ice slightly melted, and you will be surprised to find they have imbibed the flavor of rare old wine.

Quick Dessert.—Take small round milk crackers, butter and toast a light brown; put two crackers in each plate: stew, then seed a half pound of prunes; sweeten to taste. Place prunes on crackers and pour whipped cream over all; add a slice of lemon to each plate.

Japanese Salad.—Cut the tops off tomatoes; remove the pulp, fill in with potato salad with the usual French dressing. Season with onion chopped dine. Put on ice to chill. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Savory Cakes .- Make a rich puff paste. Cut into rounds. Fill the rounds with a mixture of grated cheese, moistened with tomato sauce. Bake in a quick oven and cut into fingers.

Daviled Kidneys.-Snlit sheep kidneys in half, with the skin and white membrane removed. Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan and, when hot, but in the kidneys, dust with salt and pepper, and cook quickly. Pour over this a little tablespoonful of onion juice, tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce and tablespoonful of sherry, bread and stilton cheese.

Sea Foam Candy.—To two cups brown sugar add enough water to soak it and boil until it spins a thread. Have the white of one egg beaten stiff on a platter; pour the candy over it, and beat rapidly until it creams, smooth out and cut.

Onion Soup.—Slice a large onion and fry in hot lard. Add flour for thickening, put in a quart of water and let boil 10 minutes. Season with salt, pepper, and a few chopped sorrel leaves. Beat the yolks of two eggs; stir them in the whole, and pour over

Fig Preserves.

Take the figs when nearly ripe and cut across the top in the form of a cross. Cover with strong salted water and let stand three days, changing the water every day. At the end of this time cover with fresh water, adding a few grape or fig leaves to color and cook until quite green. Then put again in cold water, changing twice daily, and leave three days longer. Add a pound granulated sugar to each pound of figs, cook a few moments, take from the fire and set aside two days. Add more sugar to make sweet, with sliced and boiled lemon or ginger root to flavor, and cook until tender and thick.

To Wash Mirrors and Glass. Put a few drops of ammonia on a moist rag and make short work of it. If the glass is very dirty, put zome finely powdered whiting in a small piece of muslin. Dab it over the glass. The cirtier the glass the more whiting is required. Then amear evenly with a damp rag and let it remain until dry. Then rub off with chamois. If alcohol be used instead of water the glass will receive a fine

To Heat Milk.

Put the milk in a small tin can, uch as an empty cocoa can, and place it in a basin of hot water. Move i around, and in a short time the milk will be warm enough. When one has a gas or gasoline stove it would be better to heat water ove the blaze and then to put milk directly over fire, where it is ant to boll and become unfit for baby's stomach.

French Stew.

One pound of meat, one small head of cabbage, one onion and one quart of tomatoes. Run the meat through a meat hopper or cut in small pieces. cut cabbage, tomatoes and onlone fine Canned tomatoes may be used if fresh ones are not available. Season to taste. Just before serving stir one tablespoon of flour in a little water till it is smooth and add.

Keep Kettles Dry.
The inside of kettles should either be dried whenever the contents have been emptied, or they should be hung up or stood upside down in a dry place. A few drops of water, if al lowed to collect at the bottom of the kettle. soon cause spots of rust, and these in time generate into holes.

Escalloped Meat Scraps, A good way to use left-overs of any delicate meat such as chicken, veal, ste, is to chop the meat fine, add a of peas, season well and aprimate seather crumbs and pieces of Pour cream over all and bake Wen brown

VOLUME XXX.

A PUZZLE FROM LIFE. Now, the Lady Married One to Two Men-Which? Do You Know?

There was a lady who from her youth up had many sultors; but as the years wore on they gradually fell from their allegiance, until one day she awoke to the fact that of all the many but two remained. This led to some earnest communion with her soul and caused her for the first time, seriously to consider the question of

"I am no longer as young as I was," she remarked to herself, "and al-though my friends are kind enough to call me charming their very insistence upon it leads me to believe that I should decide at once which of my two remaining suitors I had better accept."

Then she cogitated long and spent sleepless nights over the problem, but ound it ever more difficult to solve.
"Billy," she argued, "is strong and nasterful. He will guard me from all rude contact with the world. He will view me as a rare and fragile hot-house flower which must be shielded from every rude blast, every varying change of temperature. The sun must not shine too stronly upon me nor the wind blow too keenly. He appeals to my feminine sense of dependence and to my love of being loved; but," and she shook her head soberly; there is no use disguising the fact that his excessive care to me will

"He will always be solicitous to see that I wear my rubbers when it is damp underfoot. He will insist on leciding for me all the questions of what books I shall read, what religion I shall adopt and, probably, what breakfast food I shall eat. Within two years I shall be a pampered non-entity without either a will or an intelligence of my own.
"Now, I must weigh Jack in the balance. He is a dear, loyable fellow, a charming and amusing comnanion, but with as little sense of responsibility as a kitten. He appeals strongly to my maternal instinct. I feel that he needs my affection and, in a measure, my guidance; but I cannot deceive myself. I shall have to bear the brunt of everything, decide all important questions and grapple of the congregation looked surprised, with all the problems that would but a look of comprehension passed come to us in our mutual experience. lie demands of existence sunshine and f storm and stress he would be as: a broken reed. ### Shaw Not a Gourmand.

George Bernard Shaw, critic, dramatist and novelist, asserts that he has no more home instinct than a milk can at a railway station. He adnits, however, that he has an address at 10 Adelphia terrace, London. "These chambers," he explains, "constitute the real center of my domesticity, because my wife lives there. My official residence, qualifying me as a vestryman, is in Fitzroy square; my nother lives there. I live nowhere He says that any place that will hold bed and a writing table is as characteristic of him as any other. At one of the Socialist conferences, when the delegates assembled after lunch, the well-known writer came in rubbing his hands and giving thanks for the splendid dinner he had just had. Some one asked him what he had for din-ner. "Ah!" replied Mr. Shaw, with all the serenity of a well-fed man, "I've had seven bananas!"

Mourning Vagaries.

"Mourning is not what it used to be," said an undertaker. "In fact, I expect to see it go out altogether in the next century or so. Perhaps it is just as well. No young widow, I've heard say, can wear mourning without looking like an adventureas.

"But in the seventeenth century widows not only wore mourning, but their bed curtains were black, and the sheets and pillow cases had a black edging, like stationery. Even their ingerie had a mourning band.

"In Italy the nobles of the Renaissance carried their mourning as far as their knives and forks, which had bony instead of ivory handles.

"Gray cloth superceded black for mourning in the eighteenth century. The fashion lasted about twenty years. Then it died out, as it had sprung up, mysteriously.'

"The nature fake," said Dr. William I. Long, the nature writer, "Is always harmful. A striking instance of this occurred not long since at the soo. You know the old nature fake about the swan—how this beautiful bird, silent all its days, bursts when cying into the sweetest song? Well, at a zoo one day, a keeper saw a hov steal up behind a swan with a brick in his hand

"'Here,' said the keeper, 'what are ou going to do there?" 'Ah, lemme alone,' snarled the boy. 'I wanter hear him sing.'

Nice of Tom.

"Yes," she said, "I always like to go out with Tom."
"But," her friend replied, "he seems so stupid. He hardly over says any-

SAVED BY BROTHER-IN-LAW. Nervous Man Escaped Ordeal That

He Dreaded.

Mr. B-and his brother-in-law are both members of a certain Evangelical church in a city where the weekly prayer meeting forms an important feature. Mr. B—, while regular in his attendance at the church services on Sunday, has seldom been present at the prayer meeting, through fear lest, secording to the prevalent custom, he may be called upon either to pray or "give testimony." He is a bashful man, and such an ordeal has extreme terror for him.

But one evening recently he yielded to his brother in law's persuasion and formed one of the congregation

After two or three others had been called upon and responded, the searching eye of the pastor lighted upon Mr. Beaming with approval, and feeling, apparently, that public recognition would be an encouragement to the infrequent visitor, he announced: "And now Brother B- will please lead us in prayer." The unhappy victim was thunder-struck. Exactly what he had always leared had happened. He was fairly paralyzed with fright, and he that even should he open his lips he

But what escape was there? The congregation had siready devoutly bowed their heads, waiting for him to begin. The delay had become notice-able, and Mr. B—'s torture grew momentarily, when sudden relief came in an unexpected form. His brother-inlaw, who is somewhat deaf, nudged him gently, and inquired in an anxious whisper:

What is the matter, John, did he

call upon me to pray?"
"Certainly, Sam," shamelessly responded the other, with ready pressponded the other, with ready pres-ence of mind. "He called on you."
The difficulty was solved. Praying and speaking at the meetings were familiar to the brother-in-law, and he took up the task which had been laid upon Mr. B—. The latter breathed freely again, like a man who had escaped a great danger. Some members over the face of the minister, and Mr. oses, a song and a feat: but in times | courage to attend again, he would

Make the Dead Heed.

From New Zealand comes the following weird yarn: "The tohunga (native magician) was even credited with the power of influencing the dead. The present writer was a witness of the following incident: A branch of the Arawas, the tribe of the district of Rotorus, being at war, had suffered defeat and one of their braves had been brought home dead. The vanquished sought at once to find out by chief whether they would be successful in their next encounter. The tohunga was requested to procure the desired omen, the people squatting in a ring about the bier. Advancing a few paces from the dead body, the priest began to recite a powerful incantation, intent on making the depresent being fixed on the slain war-rior. Presently the corpse was observed to move slightly to one side, on which a great cry of joy rose from the people. The movement was inter-preted as a sign of future victory. This feat was often performed by the tohungs of olden times."

Popular Hatred.

Let no man slight the scorns and hate of the people. When it is unjust. it is a wolf; but when it is just, a dragon. Though the tyraut season does think he may contemn their mal lice; yet he ought to remember that they have many hands, while he hath one neck only. If he, being single, be

Overcame All Obstacles.

At 12 years of age Keir Hardie, the ish parliament, could neither read nor write and the only kind of schooling he received was a rough drilling in the elements of reading, which he ob-tained by studying books and notices in shop windows. Writing and short hand Mr. Hardle taught himself, prac ticing the latter in the coal mine with he aid of a white stone blackened with smoke from his pit lamp and used as a tablet upon which he scratched the symbols with a pin. At 22 he left the pits and became secre-tary of a miners' union and two years later he obtained a position as sub-editor of a local newspaper at Cumnock, the town in which his present nome is situated.

CHANGE THE SHERMAN LAW.

would ask our public men to cease the talk which gives the inference that everything in our corporation life is rotten : which disturbs business men ind harms our fair reputation all over the world. It is not true that our business generally is being conducted on unlawful lines. I can state, and defy contradiction, that the railroads of this country, the great interest shout which there is so much talk and abuse, are being conducted to-day in accordance with the letter and spirit of the law. The worthless class, the reformer who hopes, without work, to get some of his neighbors' property, are very few. We should not enourage this number or lead our people, who are nearly all comparatively well off, to think that there is any class in this country trying to oppress another.

Above all, the Sherman law, so-called, should be changed. I have repeatedly stated, and I think my construction of that law has been agreed to by the highest in the land, that under the present terms, and if strictly construed, no man can honestly engage in business with out danger of violating it. Any agreement, almost, be tween two parties is a conspiracy. This spirit has been enlarged and re-enacted in State Legislatures until it has produced even worse conditions. In my own State legislation is so strict that if two butchers on opposite cor ners of the street should agree upon the price of beef-steak it would be a penitentiary offense, and conspiracy can be proved without the usual form of evidence.

WHY THE MEDICINE MAN IS PASSING.

By Frederick Treves

I am afraid that a long time will elapse before people break off the extraordinary habit of taking medicine when they are sick It is a prejudice deep down in the hearts of people. Why it exists it is hard to say, but there it is, and I suppose it must con tinue some little time longer.

If you picture the environment of a doc tor, you see a room with a multitude of shelves covered with bottles from floor to celling. These bottles rapidly are vanishing, and the time is not far dis tant when they will be reduced to an extremely small number. The empty shelves will be replaced by simple living, suitable diet, plenty of sun and plenty of fresh The astonishing history of certain infectious mal adles surpasses in interest every romance that ever has been written. The tubercle at this moment is killing 50,000 people per annum. Not one of those people nec die-the disease is preventable.

Take consumption. In the years 1861-5, the mortality from consumption in Great Britain was twenty-five per 10,000, but it has dropped until now it is less than twelve per 10,000. This compels us to ask what is going to hanpen if this sort of thing goes on. It means this-it will be impossible to find deaths from scarlet fever, typhoid cholera, diphtheria and the like. There used to be 200 leper houses in England. There is not one in existence now, except as a curiosity, and leprosy has left England since the eighteenth century. In 1605, in the short period of six months, if Macaulay is to be trusted, 100, 000 people died of the black death. Where is it now? It has vanished. Did anyone at that time ever dream of suggesting that the day could possibly come when death from leprosy and plague would be unknown? Yet black death has now no place in the British Isles. As an Irish-man would say: "Black death has found that England is no place to live in."

FINANCIERS AS MONEY MANIACS.

By Rev. Dr. Charles B. Locke.

Americans are manifesting an itching for money beyond all reason. Money has its good sides as well as its evil. It can purchase privileges and multiply chances and annihilate distance. Money makes possible the greatest philanthropic schemes and generosities. Money makes the world go, and it can be made humanity's supremest blessing.

Alas, that riches so often prove to be pit-falls to those who seek and to those who possess them! Men become money mad. They want money, not for the privileges which it will afford, but to endeavor to satisfy an insatiable greed. Our age is sadly afflicted with this inglorious mania, and men are endeavoring to get money, bonestly if it is convenient, but they must get money.

What instance of this uncontrollable passion of greed have been seen recently in the diabolical system of rebates by which great corporations have grown richer and respectable smaller dealers have been crushed to the wall, and the high-handed robberies and vulgar criminal extravagances of insurance officials!

Somebody has been recently insisting that the very rich are insane, that the acquisition of the power which great wealth brings unsettles men's minds. It is true, however, that selfishness and arrogance and vulgar extravagance, and foolbardiness and utter defiance of all laws of safety and society characterize some men who become suddenly rich. The awful slaughter of the automobile maniac illustrates this tendency among prosperous people.

WHY WOMEN DO NOT MARRY.

By Henry S. Pritchett.

There is the general supposition that college women do not marry; that higher education is leading them away from the home. This is true, but it also applies to women outside of colleges-women who have mastered an art or a profession. Marriage with them is not a necessity from the point of support; they have their liberty and indenemience and self-support in their own hands. and they weigh well the advantages they might gain by marrying.

It cannot be questioned that woman's independence as to marriage makes for her happiness, not only as an individual, but as a sex. If the financial question could be eliminated, matrimony would be us nearly ideal a thing as we possibly could conceive, and it seems to be a proved fact that there is little domestic unhappiness among the women who marry from wise choice rather than conventional necessity. Love then becomes the ruling element, as it should be always.

The whole situation is simply this: In the past there was but one future for the girl --matrimony. Today woman regards herself as an individual. She looks at man from a higher viewpoint, and she weighs his powers of making her happy with her own ability to do the same thing. Marriage is no longer a necessity, and when she has mastered an art she can take the same attitude that man does-of choosing the one she wants. If she does not find what she likes, she has the same prerogative as

The Society of the Army of the Tenee, composed of officers who served great army of the West under Grant and Sherman, recently held its unnual reunion at Vicksburg, Miss.

There, where frowned during the first two years of the Civil War the impregnable fortifications, of the Confederacy, choking the trade of the great river and cutting the southern haif of the republic in two, there where the great slege was fought out bitterly and bravely on each side, but with victory to Grant, the commander who never led to ultimate defeat, the remnant of the society which, formed in the field in 1865 and included all of the officers of the Army of the Tennesee, met in its thirty-seventh session.

With it foregathered some of the surviving Confederate officers who were among the besieged in the fated city, with Gen. Pemberton, from May 10, when the ring of assault finally closed around Vickspurg, until the 4th day of July, when the suffering garrison stacked their arms and 27,000 troops surrendered to the forces of the Union

The slege of Vicksburg is considered one of the most remarkable in all milltary history. The difficulties to be overcome were tremendous. Again and again were the naval forces on the river and the army on land repelled from "the Gibraltar of the South" but the whole nation knew that the struggle must never end until Vicksburg was in the hands of the Union forces.

The United States government has, in commemoration of the great slege purchased the fighting ground around the city, 1.283 acres, and is making a Solemnly impressive is the other government reservation at Vicksburg, the national cemetery, where rest the usnes of 16.822 Union soldiers who lost their lives in and around the city during the war. Along the line of the Union works, nine miles in extent the State has erected monuments and markers showing the position of the seventy-nine Illinois organizations which took part in the campaign. Men always become like the things of which they think most. When prayer is the outgoing of the thoughts in aspiration, in contemplation of that which is high and noble, a reaching after that which surpasses the flesh and the present, a recognition of things infinite and divine, its efficacy is seen in the outer life.

The power of prayer is not in bringing heaven down, but in lifting man up. It becomes a Jacob's ladder on they which the soul ascends to heaven in- Post. stead of lying prostrate at its feet. But to live toward the ideal, to seek the truth, to recognize and reach after the world greater than that of things, this is to pray and thus to be changed by the power of prayer into the glory of a greater life.

IDEALS IN BUSINESS LIFE.

By Rev. Dr. John Elliot. Are you greater than your work? How is the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, the doctor, the lawyer, the mother, the housekeeper, the factory hand, to be something greater then his task?

It is bringing the little nets of life into harmony with our life's purpose, and our life's purpose into accord with that of other men, and into harmony with the purpose of the spiritual universe, which I believe to be the object of an ethical society. And yet, after all, this doctrin of ours, of the worth of life and its purpose, seems to me to be a doctrine with more glad tidings and great joy than any that has ever come to the world.

There are times when the great vissions, the great harmonies of the world sweep in upon the enraptured soul. We know that they have these visions, because of the light in their faces And yet, oh, the tragedy of human Sometimes we see that light fade in the face and leave no trace behind; sometimes great events and great people are forgotten, and their place is illied with the potty events and the little interests and irritations of life.

We should do more to our gulld of mothers and fathers, to our classe for married people, to strengthen and maintain the steady influence of the great purpose, the continued influence great thoughts. The crown of an ethical society would be its guild of men and women who have passed through the struggle of life, and whose souls have been made great in it.

"HAMLIN, THE BAKER." ****

When Cyrus Hamilin was a student at Bowdoin College he added some thing to his studies which was not a part of the curriculum, a providential elective, as was proved many years later when he became president of Robert College in Constantinople, and when the necessity for good bread for the soldiers of the Crimea was brought to his notice. In "Crus Hamlin, Misslonary. Statesman, Inventor," the story is given:

One day at Bowdoin, Professor Smith delivered a lecture on the steam engine to Hamlin's class, not one of whom, perhaps, had ever seen a steam engine.

After the lecture he said to Profescan make anything you undertake.

Hamlin, and I wish you would try." He did try, and succeeded. By working twelve and sometimes fifteen hours each day, he built a steam engine sufficiently large to be of real service as a part of the philosophical apparatus of the college.

During the Crimean War there was great need of good bread, and not a steam flour mill in Constantinople. The memory of his steam engine encouraged President Hamilin to think that could establish a flour mill and a bakery, and cust good wheat bread upon the troubled waters of that Eastern

He imported a steam engine from the United States, and by the help of Ure's "Dictionary of the Arts," and after inbors which surpassed the legendary la bors of Hercules, he was ready to grind Might not a chemist make good chief physician said to him, "Are you Hamlin, the baker?" "No, sir," replied Doctor Hamlin, "I am the Reverend Mr. Hamlin, an American missionary. "That is about as correct as anything I get in this country," said Doctor Mapleton. "I send for a baker and get a missionary."

Before the misunderstanding went farther Doctor Hamlin explained that the was both a missionary and a maker of bread. The result of the confer ence was that the English secured brend at one-half less than the price they had been paying for sour

MUSHROOMS AND TOADSTOOLS. Really the Only Genuine Safe Rule Is to Est Your Steak Without Em. Perhaps there would be fewer poisonings from the eating of what are called 'toudstools" if people both could and would get it through-or, rather, intotheir heads that there are no such things as toadstools, at least in the sense in which the word is commonly that should be avoided. To the mycologist a mushroom is a mushroom-when it isn't something with a much longer name, which it usually is-and for him its mushroom-ness so to speak, is not at all affected by the little detail whether its consumption as near-food is followed by death or sur vival. As a practical man be does, to be sure, divide the species he knows into the edible and the non-edible, but he never calls the latter tondstools, as if they were something quite different from the former, for he knows that they are all of one family and that there is no one peculiarity by which they can be divided. The old rule-if you eat it and live it is a mushroom; if you eat it and die It is a tondstool-has an element of truth in it, though there are certain signs by which an unknown and unenten mustroom can be accused of being poisonous without much danger of de ing it an injustice. Perhans a good way is to let them all alone. Even the best of them is of no measurable value as food and is innocuous only when gathered at just the right time and promptly prepared in just the right way. Government Said to Four that the Sioux Will Aid Their Guests-Troops Are Sent to Watch the Ob stroperous Red Men.

Eight companies of United States cavairy have been sent to Thunder Butte, S. D., in the fear that the Sloux Indiaus are about to rise in rebellion and take the warpath as allies of the Utes, who are ready to shed blood bechuse of hardships imposed on them by the Indian agent.

It was feared settlers may be mas sacred unless extraordinary beste was made in massing in the disaffected region a sufficiently large number of troops to overawe both the Utes and the Orders were received at army head quarters in Omaha to dispatch the remaining two squadrons of the Second United States Cavairy, composed eight companies, to Thunder Butte at the carliest possible moment. In addition to the cavalry, Company M, Sixeenth Infantry, under Capt. Harry F. Dalton, left Fort Crook for Gettys burg, S. D., to take charge of the base of supplies which has been established there for the operations against the Ute Indians should they start trouble.

It was not known at army headquarters in Omaha why additional troops have been sent to the Cheyenne river reservation, but it was thought the idea was to prevent any portion of the Bioux tribe from making common cause with the Utes in their revolt against authority. The Utes, it is pointed out, are in a sense the guests of the Sloux, and the Indian idea of hospitality might induce some of the younger Sioux braves to offer aid in resisting any forcible measures adopted for the subjugation of the disaffected Utes.

The Ute Indians, who have recently reagainst government restraint on the Cheyenne river agency in South Datota, are believed to have taxed the patience of their good-natured Uncle San oo much. Officials of the Indian office and the Interior Department will not dis-cuss the probable action of the govern-ment in relation to the Utes, but it is intimated that if damage to property or vio-lence to settlers or government officers or soldlers has been or is committed the unruly Utes will face punishment such as would be given to any other law vio-

The attitude of the Indian office to ward the uneasy Utes has been decidedly ratherly one ever since they first gave evidence of a desire to get away from their own reservation. In the summer of 1006 the Utes decided that civilization and citizenship were things which they ildn't care for, and they announced their letermination of leaving the Uintah reservation in Utah and striking off into the "Indian country" in South Dakota.

Nearly 300 of them went on the pli-griminge and the government followed in the capacity of friendly adviser, urging them to return to their own reservation and keeping an eye on them as they work d their way eastward. It was expected he Utes would return to their reservation n the winter, but they remained in Nyoming country for some time and ap-variety had no intention of providing for their own comfort and maintenance luring the cold weather.

As a consequence they were finally "ar-ested" last fall and taken to Fort Meade couth Dakota, where provision was made or their temporary quartering. Arrange-uents were then made with the Sioux In-lians on the Cheyenne river agency in South Dakota whereby four townshins of and were leased for the Utes and they were established upon these lands, near Chunder Butte, at the upper end of the

The Utes have shown no inclination to return to their own lands in Utah. The money for their support in South Dakota is drawn from the funds which would otherwise go to the general support of the Ulintah and Ouray agencies in Utah, but this does not worry them. They seem willing to get along with the least possible amount of work have the seement of work have been the seement of the seement of work have been the seement of the seement ork: but resent and fort on the part of the government to restrain their liberty, or force them to take an active part in the advancing of civilization.

The Indian office has been lenient with them in every particular. They created no great disturbance a year ago and did no damage, and as a consequence the In-dian office officials did not attempt to punish them, but turned its attention to "advising and persuading" them to accept the provisions made for them and to return to their own country.

Efforts have been made to put them to work, but the braves have persistently and effectively wriggled out of anything that looked like manual labor and have thrown themselves upon their "White Father" for support, although refusing to obey the instructions of the government's Indian officials. The commissary has Indian officials. The commissary has en care of them until some officials of the Interior Department declare that it is time they were made to understand that if they will not work and will not stay at home they must expect punishment if they commit depredations.

SOLD SECRETS OF COURTS. Discovery that Papers Were Stelen

Secret service operatives are working in Chicago to determine to what extent government secrets in recent cases of ational importance have been sold by Miss Etta McLean and Alexander B. Gordee, who were held in $5,000 bonds to the grand jury on charges of conspiracy and the theft of papers in the

John R. Walsh case. Discovery of papers relating to the Standard Oil trial in the room of Miss McLean has led to the suspicion that he and her confederate may have disclosed government plans not only in the the Standard Oil, the Chicago and Alton railway, and the school book com-

Miss McLean's position as stenog apher in District Attorney Sims' ofce, which she held since April, gave hes ample opportunity to obtain of the most valuable papers in all these cases. The fact that Gordee, her sweetheart, was able to live in idleness, dining at expensive restaurants, for the past six mouths has made it apparent he had some secret source of income.

While the government officials feel confident they have unearthed a far-reaching conspiracy, they have yet to earn its magnitude or to what extent its operations have injured government prosecutions. In the prosecution of the Standard Oil, the Alton, and the book combine it was apparent at every turn that the defendants knew in advance the government's moves, no matter how secretly planned. The arrest of the couple, it is believed, has solved this

SCHOOLS OLLEGES

By the will of the late Robert N. Car-son of Philadelphia, his fortune, amount-ing to $5,500,000, will, after the death of his widow, be devoted to the establish-ment of a college for orphan girls, similar to the Girard college for orphan boys.
Girard's benevolence was Carson's inspiration, and in thus disposing of his fortune.
Mr. Carson took satisfaction in the thought that no man would live is idleness as a gentleman of leisure on the Carson wealth. The college thus provided to will be known as the Carson College. for will be known as the Carson College, and will be erected on his estate in Montgomery county, near Philadelphia. It will be non-sectarian in character, although clergymen will be allowed to talk within the limits of fundamental Chris-tian principles.

Two more cities have joined in the popular chorus against the secret fraterni-ties in the public high schools namely Washington D. C. and Denver Colo. In the former city Supt. Chancellor bolds that the "presence of secret societies is the sign of a decaying or very young civilization." and that where the civilization," and that waers the proper spirit prevails there is a "loyalty to the school as a whole." In Denver, Mrs. Margaret T. True, president of the Board of Education, is leading the opposition as chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the matter. She says: "The oard feels that the existence of these societies is an injustice to all the ns it creates false ideas of social status and wrongs those children who become outcasts through not being admitted to the societies."

Trouble is reported at Sumrall, Miss. growing out of the opposition on the part of the natives to Italian children attend-ing the white public schools. The endeavor to shut the Italians out began some weeks ago. The State superintendent of education and the Attorney General were appealed to and they decided that the constitution provided for whites and negroes and did not catalogue Italians of the lead. ians as a separate race. One of the lead ers of the Italians who insisted on the rights of his people was taken beyond the town limits, soundly threshed and ordered to desist in his efforts to get Italian chil-dren into the white schools. The anti-Italian sentiment is strong in Missis sippl and one of the candidates for Governor made it the chief plank in his platorm.

Discontent with the public school system has crystallized into a war cry for nelghborhood schools, says the Literary Digest, and this war cry is raised by the riends and not the enemies of the public schools, who believe that concentration has reached a limit in schools as well as in other departments of civic activity. Boston has had the subject brought to its attention by observing that over 30,-000 of its children, or over one-third of its school population, are attending private schools. A writer in the Boston Transcript says there is among parents a growing dread of the big public school. la growing dread of the big public school, where little children are herded together by the hundreds. DOG AS A LIGHT BRANCH. an Indian Territory Hunter

Is His Master's Helper, Mack is an essential part of the municipal street cleaning system of Mus kogce, I. T., says the Kansas City Star. He is only a well-bred Llowellyn setter dog, but during the closed season for game he puts in full time at street cleaning. He works at night. His owner Mack Bishop, says that the dog is of great service to him and to the city. Mark seems to be fully sware of his importance when on duty.

For the sweeping of the paved districts in Muskogee, a large roller sweeper, drawn by four horses, is used. The driver of this sweeper is the owner of Mack. While his master is driving the four horses the dog walks at the side of the sweeper, carrying a large lanter in his mouth to enable the driver to see that the machine is working properly. Every night the faithful dor can be seen at his post of duty. He has a lan tern which, while large, is not heavy, and the handle is heavily padded a that the wire will not cut his mouth As the big, dust-gathering sweeps passes along the streets the dog keeps alongside in exactly the right position When the sweeper slows down he mod erates his gait and when it stops he stops also, sets his lantern down and rests until the sweeper is started again When it starts be picks up the lanters and is ready for business. The drive of the aweeper may leave his horse and machine for an hour or two at time, but in the meantime no other per son can touch a horse or the lanter which the dog carries.

Mack took up his task of his own ccount. One night his master was using a lantern while adjusting the sweeper and when he had finished he started his team, leaving the lantern Presently he looked around and saw Mack carrying the lantern in his mouth The dog has been carrying it regularly

Ravenous Rats.
It is estimated that the rat does $50,000,000 worth of damage a year in England. In a slaughterhouse near Paris rats in a single night picked to the hone the carcasses of thirty-five horses. There is very little that they will not eat; eggs, young birds and animals are among the daintles which they snap up in the ordinary course of business. But when pressed by hunger they will eat anything through which they can drive their terrible teeth. Rat will eat rat. The idea that a trapped rat will bite off an imprisoned leg and so escape is now said to be wrong; it is the other rats which do the biting. They eat the captive.

"International"

The International Live Stock Exposition grows better with each passing year. What up-to-date stockman this great event from his plans? We make arrangements to go to Chicago to give a week over to solid enjoyment and better than that, even, to improvement and the advice of this great convention. Not only does the stock man go himself, but he takes his wife sons and daughters.

Farming is the best business on carth, but every business man must get away from the affairs that so directly engross him a little while each year. The banker goes to his National Bankers' Convention, the merchant goes to the great cities to study the latest styles, inventions and improvements. The stock man, of course must go to the International to see and renew his associations with other marvelous International gathering. I will meet you at the next International is the line that will go into thousands of letters written by stock men to each other and to their friends.

Lomon Sauce .- (1) When used for boiled fowls: Peel and seed a largo fowl's liver, which has been boiled, very fine; add it to the lemon, with half a pint of melted butter. Serve in sauceboat. (2) When used for fish: Put a quarter of a pound of butter in a saucepan; add the juice of a large emon, with pepper and salt to taste. As it heats, boat it constantly so that it may become thick and hot without bolling. When cooked sufficiently, remove and add the beaten yolks of two eggs. (3) A sweet lemon sauce for puddings: Boll a pint of water and a coffee-cupful of granulated sugar to-gether for five minutes; then add three heaping teaspoonfuls of corn that have previously been mixed with cold water. Finally, add both the grated rind and the juice of a large lemon and a tablespoonful of Cook until the butter has melted; then serve.

Lemon Butter Sauce.—Put two table spoonfuls of powdered sugar and half that quantity of corn-starch in a sauce pan; grate the rind of one lemon ove the top; then add half a pint of boiling water, the juice of the lemon and a piece of butter about the size of a hickory nut. When these ingredients have blended thoroughly, add, little by little, the beaten yolk of two eggs being careful to stir the mixture con stantly during the minute or two that it must remain over the fire. Other wise the eggs will be certain to curdle

Lentil Sauce. Soak the lentile in cold water about six hours. Drain them and put them in a saucepan with some bones of ham, or a quarter of a pound of sait pork: cover with wate and season with bayleaf, thyme, pars ley, a chopped carrot and two onion in which some cloves have previously been thrust. When cooked sufficiently remove the pork and discard the herbs and onions, but mash the carro through a colander with the liquid. If too thick, add the necessary quantity of good broth to thin; sesson with pepper, sait and butter, and, when the butter has melted, serve.

Cold Potatoes Scalloped. Cut cold boiled or baked potatoes into dice until you have a large cup

ful. Have ready an equally large cup-ful of rich drawn butter, into which you have beaten the yolks of two eggs and a heaping tablespoonful of finely grated cheese

Put a layer of potato dice in the bottom of a buttered dish; pepper and salt to taste. Some think it is improved by a few drops of onion juice

Cover with the sauce and go on in this order until the materials are used up. Sprinkle fine cracker crumbs and grate cheese on top; stick bits of but ter in this crust, salt and pepper. Bake, covered, for half an hour, then

Allow a pound of sugar to each ound of tomatoes and a half cup of water to each pound of fruit. Cover the tomatoes with boiling water, then kim. Make a syrup of the ugar. and when boiling skim and add the tomatoes. Have ready a sliced lemon that has been cooked in boiling water and a little sliced ginger. Add to the tomatoes. Cook until the to-matoes are clear, remove, pack in jars, cook the syrup until thick, pour over and seal.

Stuffed Potatoes.

Bake six good sized potatoes, and when done remove from the oven, cut a slice from the top of each and carefully remove the inside. Mash this thoroughly and add two table afuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of hot milk, and salt and pepper to taste. Last, add the whites of two eggs well beaten. With this mixture refill the skins, place in a hot oven, and bake for five minutes.

Nut Sandwiches

Take mayonnaise or firmly whipped ing year. What up-to-date stockman sweet cream, thicken with powdered can for a moment think of omiting or chopped nut meats—walnuts, pecans, simonds, filberts or Brazil p nice-or a mixture of several the last of November of each year and varieties is good. The addition of raisins to the mixture is an improvement in flavor. Made with tea biscuit or finger rolls they are very nice and require no butter.

> Mutton Feet a la Creole. Clean the feet well, but leave them hole. They can be bought already bolled. Fry in hot lard, onions and s spoonful of flour. When browned add tomatoes and a can of sweet peppers. When done put in the feet and add mushrooms, the seasoning bouquet, and salt and pepper to taste.

To purify water add powdered alum to the water in the proportion of one tenanconful to every four gallons. If stock men, to see the best specimens you stir this briskly you will find that of all breeds of live stock and to gain all impurities will be precipitated to inspiration which comes from that the bottom, while the rest of the water will be left pure and clear.

HINTS OF SCANDAL IN RECENT

NEW YORK GRISIS.

See of a Mexican Engine

It is learned in Washington that Co troller of the Currency Ridgely has be preparation for transmission to the De-partment of Justice the results of his investigation of conditions disclosed in a bank in New York. The inquiry began with the bank in question getting into trouble, from which it was extricated by drastic measures. It is understood that the examiners have discovered violation of the national banking law in the report made to the Comptroller. For making false reports the law prescribes imprisonment for not more than ten years. Whet er the offenses discovered are of this character, the Comptroller would not in-dicate. The most that he would say was that the facts would be submitted in a very few days to the Department of Jus-tice. It was said at the Department of Justice that the Comptroller had not yet made a report on the results of his inves tigation. The apple crop of the United States in 1907, as estimated by the American Agriculturist in its report, is 24,000,000 barrels, which is much less than the yield of last year. What is of great impor-tance is the shortage in such commercial orchard sections as western New York, nearly all of Michigan and the entire Southwest. An absolute failure is noted York State has many apples, but they will be needed, and, for that matter, the total is only about one-fourth to one third of a full yield. Extension of the parcel-post service and the establishing of postal-savings banks under the fostering care of the gov-ernment were given a long boost forward by George von L. Meyer, Postmaster General, Thursday night when he had fin ished his address before the Industrial Club and its guests at the Auditorium hotel in Chicago. Referring to postal savings Mr. Meyer said: "During the fiscal year ended on June 30, 1907, the Postoffice Department sent to Europe money of the immigrants to the extent of money of the immigrants to the citest of $71,000,000, of which $19,000,000 went to Italy (sent by more than 475,000 money orders, averaging $4 each), $8,755,000 to Hungary, $7,000,000 to Austria, $7,220,000 to Russia and $11,582,000 to Great Britain. This merely represents slight portion of their savings, because a slight portion of their savings, because it is human nature to give away but a small part. Such money, while it was accumulating, might have been put into the postal savings banks." On the subject of the parcel post the Postmaster General said: "We have to-lay parcelpost conventions with thirty-two countries. The rate to each of these countries is 12 cents a pound. What I desire to call vividly to your attention is the fact that if any one in Chicago goes to the postoffice with two parcels of four pounds each, one addressed to New York and the other addressed to some friend in a foreign country, the rate on the one to New York will be 16 cents pound or 64 cents, while on the one to the foreign country the rate will be 12 cents a pound, or 48 cents. Should each parcel weigh four pounds and two ounces. he narcel addressed to New York would accepted, while that addre the foreigner in another country would go to New York and on to its destination at the rate of 12 cents a pound. This ap-pears to me to be an injustice to our -in fact, an un-American practice Therefore, the department will mend the same rate and the same limit of weight for parcels, whether intended for weight for parcels, whether intended for delivery in this country or abroad, which means a reduction in the rate of 4 cents a pound and an increase in the weight of seven pounds, eleven pounds being the weight limit to foreign countries. EUROPMANIA IS COSTLY.

$900,000,000 Goes Abroad in Alli-ances with Nobility. More than 400 American girls have married foreigners of noble families and any of them have taken big fortunes to their European husbands. A French journal, Le Petit Parisien. declared the other day that American zirls who had married abroad, mostly for foreign titles, had carried with them to Europe the astonishing sum of $900,000, 000. The Paris writer did not associate this statement with the reports of "tight money" in America, yet the fact that hundreds of millions have gone out of the country with the title hunters may well occasion a little financial as well as a social speculation. Henry Clews, the veteran financier, when asked for an opinion on this ceti-

mate, said:
"I think the statement that $500,000. 000 of wealth has been taken out of this country, or at least that the ownership of this wast amount of assets has been ransferred to allens by the marriage of American girls with foreigners is conservative. WILL ASK AUTO MAIL CAR. Postal League to Press Its Plan

Before Congress The next Congress will be asked to provide for an experiment in automobile post-offices for rural delivery service. This suggestion was made at a meeting of the Postal Progress League recently by James L. Cowles, the secretary and treasurer of the league.

Mr. Cowles estimated that the present loss to the government on rural delivery service amounted to $172 for each routs. With the adoption of automobiles and a change in the postal regulations to p a local rural purcels delivery w weight limit of eleven pounds, Mr. Cowles profit instead of a loss to the government.

Following out this suggestion, the league will ask Congress for an appropriation of $90,000 to test the plan. Mr. Cowles' calculations were made for a route of twelve miles covered twice a day He estimated that the cost of these trips, including the carrier's salary, would amount to only $5 a day, which would be more than provided for if each of some American gris with foreigners is conserved from the town attive. Undoubtedly the withdrawal of 175 families along the route paid only 3 such an enormous sum has an appreciable effect upon the money market.

A new encyclical issued by Pope Plus X. at Rome makes a sweeping condemnation of all the so-called heresies of the present time, which he has grouped under the term "modernism." In taking this attitude the Pope asserts that he is but following in the footsters of his needlefollowing in the footsteps of his predecessor, Leo XIII. The document examines the different aspects of modernism in philosophy, religion, history, criticism, and the various social reforms known as radicalism, contending that in all these respects the effect would be toward the destruction of dogmas and of the church hierarchy. Modernism is further charac-terized as "unlimited curiosity, presumption, individualism, ignorance and disre Helen Zimmerman 2,000,000 spect of real Catholic science and discipline. Puro Food Law Defended.

Dr. N. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the ericultural Department, in an interview. defends the national pure-food law from the attacks of those who charge the inreased cost of living to its operation. Dr. Wiley admits that pure foods are worth more, and should bring higher prices in the markets than debased foods, and says that any legitimate rise in the price on rather than to the producer, and should be regarded as a blessing and not as a curse. He calls attention to the fact that while pure foods have advanced in price the adulterated articles have declined Nevertheless he points out that the great staple articles which form 30 per cent of the food supply are not, and cannot be affected by this iss. He warms the pub

NEW YORK.

Good progress has been made in accoun modating the country to the changes financial conditions, this, too, with strikingly little friction, considering the starestitution of credit instruments for actual cash. At the same time wholesale and jobbing trade has quieted down very perceptibly, and the disposition in midastrial lines has been to curtail production where ever possible, the aim being to avoid un-necessary or possibly burdensome accumu-lations of stocks.

There is a rather more optimistic temp prevailing this week than last, the sut-growth of the better feeling at the East. the large arrivals of gold from Europe and the idea that basic conditions, both as regards the purchasing power of the ple and the absence of large stocks, are better than in some preceding years of stress. There are, it is true, increasing evidences that the level of commodity prices has been forced unreasonably high, and that the process of readjustment will compel numerous revisions.-Bradstreet's

When the sun rose a few mornings after our dear friend was no more. They sent for me, in a few days, to go to the quiet, lonely Sarah met me at the door, and cried softly as she showed me into the dim old parlor. Several gentlemen were in the room, and one of them came forward to welcome me. I never could remember just how it happened, but I was made to understand that Miss Ellington had changed her will. and that she had left everything to "Alice Wilder, the dear friend who made life tolerable to the last." There was a request that I would live in the grand old house, and keep the faith-ful servants. After awhile we were all settled there, the happlest little family in the world, for the old house was freshened and brightened in many ways. One day Sarah came to me in the garden with a card in her hand, and I was much surprised to find that Mrs. Grey was waiting for smiling. "You will pardon the liberty I take, Miss Wilder, but Charlie has written to me about you, and I feel like an old friend, really." The call was very pleasant; Margaret brought us some tea, and the children came in and we had a nice little morning. Scarcely a week had passed when Charlie hinself came. He kissed the children, and was so bright and merry that I was quite glad to see him; when the little ones were gone, he turned to me, his hand some face tender an' smiling. "Allie," he said, "I can't live with out you; there's no use trying; haven't you missed me?" "Only at first," I replied, "I have been too busy for a long time now."

The door hell rang. "Ah, there is Dr.
Murray, Charlie; I shall be glad to introduce you, and I know you will be glad that I am to marry so noble man." Dr. Murray came in then, and in his grave kindly way he talked with Charlie, while I sat quietly comparing the two men, and I wondered if I had really loved Charlie in the old days.

Cleveland Plain Dealer. A GOLDEN BALL

British Soldiers Played the National

Probably no game of ball, by pro-fessional or college team, was ever watched with such inner interest but with such outward indifference as one described in Gertrude Vanderbilt's "Social History of Flatbush." It hapnened in revolutionary times, when Long Island. The inhabitants had hidden their valuables in all possible places. One lady concealed some gold the kind worn by the Dutch house wife, suspended at her side.

She was sitting sewing one day when a party of British soldiers entered the room. A young officer, spying what to him was a novelty, cut with his sword the ribbon by which the cushion was hung and began a

Soon the rest of the company joined the sport. Bolsterously, from hand to hand, the ball was batted to and fro. It was roughly snatched tossed, and sometimes it fell into the ashes of the fireplace, and barely es-caped conflagration. Now and again soldier would catch it on the tip of with a rent in its side.

Every moment threatened to reveal cious contents. To show the least anxiety was to betray the secret, and the owner was forced to sit un-moved, apparently intent on her work, and to see her fortune flying through the nir, at the mercy of the enemy. At last the cushion, torn and battered. but still guarding its treasure, was re turned to its mistress, and the intrud ers, tired of their play, left the house. -Youth's Companion.

DOG SOLDIERS UNDER FIRE.

Successful Recent Experiments Mado in the German Army.

The use of dogs for military purposes has proved so successful in Germany that the dog soldler is continu ally being taught new things. Near Dresden recently there was a test of skill which was a great revelation of their accomplisments.

Two mocpanies of soldiers separated a distance of a mile and a quarter, one of them, supposed to be an outpost in the face of an enemy, commu for some time by the aid of dogs trained to go back and forth. time the distance betweenthe two companies was traversed by the days in less than two minutes, in spite of intense heat and a great deal of confusing firing.

The special ofbject of the use of these fast dogs is to enable detach ments of inform themselves of the ing and so to maintain a position up to the last moment practicable.

On the same occasion the cartridge dogs performed their peculiar duty, wrich is to supply the troops with cartridges during a rapid fusible de Each dog wears a kind of pack saddle which carries 300 cartridges. With this load he travels up and down the line of men, who help themselves to cartridges as they have need. As soon as the pack saddle is empty column of Health and Beauty full speed to get it replenished.

Every one has heard of the dogs of the "pious monks of St. Bernard." which are supposed to have a sort of monopoly of the accomplishment of calling assistance for them. But the German military hive dogs trained to search out and attend the wounder and call human assistance

These dogs of the ambulance corps them, carrying a little flash of water or restorative, simply sit and bark of bay near the body of a fallen man Others have been trained to go in search of assistance and guide a sol dier of the ambulance corps.

The trained dogs performed al these functions very skillfully at the recent trial near Dresden. It is plain that the German army, if it should be engaged in another war, would be ac companied by a greater number o dogs than ever before accompanied an army on a campaign.

The days of ultra-refinement when merriment could be properly ex pressed only by a smirk and a smile are happily passed. People laugh heartily nowadays, but at the same time they should laugh musically. That is, they ought to put a few all very notes into their peals of joy, and those who are wise enough to study laughing do put them there. Unnot so well patronised as they should be. At the Turn of the Tide. It was asserted by Aristotle that no animal dies near the sea except at the ebbing of the tide. This idea in some form or another has been popular for Such a notion. I find, still exists at Gravesend. An old salt who used to sit by a dying man in an ale house on the shore of the Thames told me he noticed my patient was always worse better after the tide had turned. Readers of Inckens cannot forget the account in "David Copperfield" of Mr. Barkis "going out with the tide."

According to Aristotle and Mr. Peggotty, it is at the ebbing of the tide that death always occurs. But at Gravesend, I am told, it does not mintflow: It is just at the turn of the tide that death occurs, "I have often seen total folder required for cattle and it happen, sir," an old shrimper said to me quite recently .- Practitioner in the Hospital.
